With the new update, Adobe Photoshop boasts improved performance, new features, and some exciting new editing tools and improvements in other areas. With the new update, (and before that, the previous update), one of the notable features was the 'Edit In Clipboard' feature. What is the Edit In Clipboard? Well, it allows you to quickly change the look of one region in an image with the 'Edit In Clipboard' tool. For example, you can quickly make a person's eyes bigger or a sign bigger. This adds a new layer to your image, which consists of a clipping mask. With this update, Adobe Photoshop claims to be more streamline and intuitive. It has a matte style skin, which is more friendly on your eyes. It's packaged in a modern, minimalist style, and follows the changes in the Photoshop app. Also in the new update, you can now put a pin or star in your screenshots and photos. You can also navigate to your photos in the browser in an album, and you can view them, while you edit them. Adobe Photoshop is on a path toward an all-AI future. The latest update of the AI Creator XD includes new, integrated features that give the software the ability to interpret what you're doing and do it on its own. You can also use the apps to create a personalized email for your clients, or manipulate a downloaded SVG file for printing. Adobe is hoping these artificial intelligence advances will help it transition into the future where much of Photoshop's arcane knowledge can be automated.
